IMA – HBI – NABH ACCREDITATION INITIATIVE

IMA constituted the Hospital Board India – (IMA-HBI) with the objective of helping the hospitals in preparing the medical standards, providing uniform treatment, addressing Human capital related issues pertaining to the Healthcare Industry and improvement of public Health and Medical Education in India.

Accreditation of healthcare is an important tool for improving and regulating the quality of care.

“Cluster Based Technical Assistance for NABH Pre-Accreditation Entry Level Certification Programme” by IMA Maharashtra State & State Chapter of IMA Hospital Board of India is efforts by IMA-HBI to facilitate accreditation for small & medium size hospitals.

This initiative is by IMA , IMA-Hospital Board of India. IMA Life Membership & HBI membership is compulsory.

This initiative is a part of the leadership role that IMA played in championing the cause for a more liberal accreditation programme that suits the realities of the tens of thousands of small and medium medical professionals owned hospitals which are the true back bone of the health care delivery across our country.

The IMA has an exclusive agreement with NABH to promote this programme across the country and a successful pilot has been working in South India over last 2 years with considerable participation.

The key reason for IMA to develop this cluster based technical support programme enabling the hospitals to achieve the entry level NABH accreditation was the prevalent scenario where several private agencies are offering so called consultancy support at inflated prices and without sufficient technical knowhow.

There have been several instances over the last few years of our hospitals being swindled by such fly by night operators and agencies.

The technical assistance programme designed and offered by IMA HBI is implemented Nationally and has been pilot tested and modified to the needs of small and mid-sized hospitals.

This works on the principle of collaboration between the participants hospital under the IMA umbrella and offers trustworthy and sound technical assistance validated and constantly monitored by the IMA team.

Any short comings in the support programme shall be immediately addressed through a monitoring committee of IMA and corrective actions ensured on receiving any grievances from our participant hospitals.

IMA-HBI-NABH initiative is transparent on the cost sharing to be borne by each category of hospitals (classified according to bed strength) and the services that will be provided by the technical assistance team.

General outline of IMA-HBI-NABH accreditation drive :

Baseline assessment:

Knowledgeable and credible evaluators objectively assess each area and conduct a detailed baseline assessment of the organization's current scenario and each measurable element.

Score gives specific findings and recommendations.

Baseline quality data as required by the quality monitoring standards is also analysed. This defines gap analysis from the defined standards.

Action planning :

Using the findings of the baseline assessment & gap analysis, a detailed project plan is developed, starting first with priority areas of the core standards. Responsibilities, deliverables and time frames are assigned (e.g., revise informed consent policy, develop a new informed consent statement, educate staff in the next immediate period.)

Training :

Good people skills, time-management skills, and consensus-building skills, and to explain each chapter of standards to the hospital nodal people, doctors from throughout the hospital and carry out the process.

SOPs & Documentation :

In addition to an overall project plan, it is helpful to compile a list of all required policies and procedures, SOPs & documentation that will need development and revision.

Continuous monitoring the progress in meeting the standards, such as through a mini-evaluation of each chapter at regular intervals.

Mock Survey :
